Kazoo

Explore sound and science with creative kids blog Buggy and Buddy's homemade kazoo. With simple materials that you're bound to have at home (cardboard tube, wax paper, rubber band, etc), this kazoo is perfect for vocal tots who love to spend their days humming and singing. See how to re-create this activity by heading over to Buggy and Buddy.

KAZOO

- TP or paper towel tube
- Rubber band
- Wax paper
- Crayons, markers, paper

It's such an easy and pretty DIY that I thought I would share it here. Simply let your kids fill 6-8 plastic or glass bottles with different amounts of water. Mix in some paint, in the colours of your choice, and your musical instrument is ready. Tap with a spoon or similar to explore the different musical sounds. Anya made her water xylophone in a pastel palette which I thought was so pretty!
